Exit from Endeavor

My relationship with Forged Development was very informal. The purpose of this letter is to provide clarity that I am no longer part of Forged Development and have no claim against their future activities.

Any time spent developing technology was on my own equipment during my free time without compensation from Forged Development. I retain all rights to the software I created.

I am providing technical information because we are friends; not out of any kind of legal requirement.

License

Rex Brown has been given a lifetime license to use, modify, and distribute the code related to Helm, Impact Point, Observation point, and Comet. The software is “as is” with no implied warranty or certification for production use.

Agreements

Noncompete and nondisclosure agreements are for paid employees. I have no obligation to sign a noncompete or a nondisclosure agreement; I will not be signing either.
